Introduction

By Arthur H. Bell

Imperial Representative, Realm of New Jersey
Knights of the Ku Klux Klan

THE title of this book, "The Ku Klux Klan In Prophecy," leads the way to its main thesis. The author of the book, Bishop Alma White, has long been considered one of the foremost warriors in the battle between darkness and light and is well able to bring forth in an understandable manner the true status of the Roman Catholic hierarchy and the Ku Klux Klan as pointed out by the greatest book of the ages, the Holy Bible.

As the reader continues through this book the impression left will be one of wonder and dread, but this will be dispelled by the light of reason and its place taken by hope and confidence as the prophecies are pointed out placing the victory in the hands of the righteous.

This book brings out vividly the titanic struggle now taking place, not only in the United States, but over the entire world, and while at the present time the battle raging has not reached the point where bullets, swords and poison gas are the weapons used, the time will soon arrive when the Roman Catholic craving for world-power will, if not checked, cause a revival of a religious war that will be far more disastrous than the late World War. The ever increasing insistence of the Roman Catholic hierarchy as to their rights to control nations, is leading to the mobilization of a white-robed Christian army of Protestant men and women who are banded together with an equal determination that our nation at least shall be allowed to function without the dominating hand of any creed or sect.

Bishop White herein endeavors to point out to the readers the fact that the future of our nation lies in the hands of the Protestant people, and this book is important, informative and interesting. It deserves a place upon the library shelves of all real Americans and the treatment given to all good books, viz., "To be read, studied, marked, digested and quoted." It is timely in that it calls attention once more to the peril and danger that confront our Nation from political Romanism.

Bishop White deserves the highest praise for her work on this truly wonderful book of "light" and it is hoped that it may reach out into the minds of Protestants and Catholics alike and bring them to a sense of realization as to where this great un-American movement to make the world Catholic will ultimately end.

Notice to the Reader

The chapters in this book are taken from lectures delivered at different times and places, therefore they have but little direct connection one with another. Each chapter stands alone and is complete within itself, and shows the status of the Roman Catholic hierarchy and the Ku Klux Klan from some incident in the Bible. There will be found some repetitions, which could not be avoided in a work of this character, but these repetitions will in no wise detract from the value of the book. I have endeavored to show that the principles for which the Ku Klux Klan is contending are not new, that the powers of evil have fought against these principles all down the ages. But though the conflict at times is fierce we have the promise of the Almighty that right will finally triumph. . . . The Author.

CHAPTER I

Rome in Prophecy

The City of Rome is built on seven mountains, spoken of in Revelation 17:9 as the seven heads "on which the woman sitteth." This woman, in the light of history and the Holy Scriptures, is Roman Catholicism, the corrupter of nations.

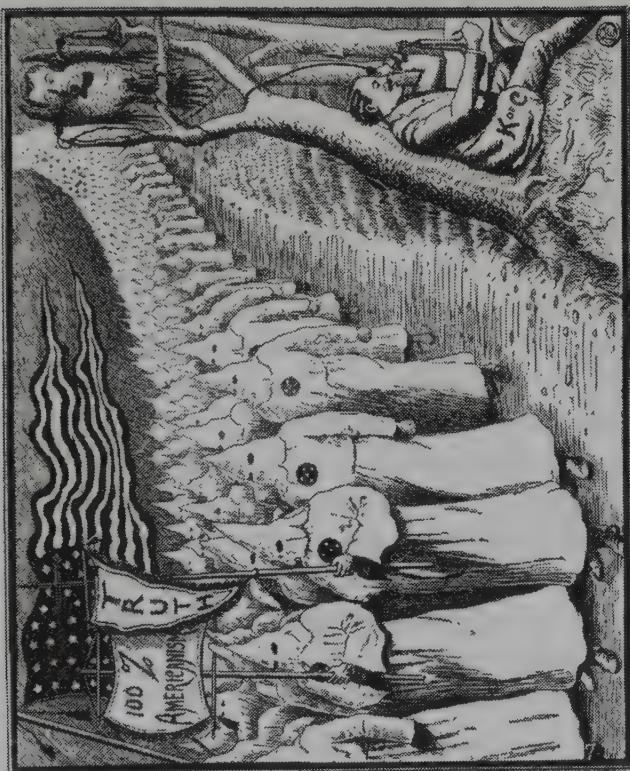

The Church of Rome lays great stress on her antiquity, which is virtually an acknowledgment of her corruption. With no true spiritual life based upon the New Testament, she has become wholly materialistic, dealing with the perishable things of the world. Her worship of bones, old relics, and other material substances which she avers have been connected with holy and ancient places, is proof of this.

"God is a spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth" (John 4:24). Christ's kingdom is spiritual, but Rome's great ambition is to create a temporal kingdom with the Pope at its head. So persistent has she been to gain world power, she has resorted to the sword in all ages to bring it about. Back of all wars are her secret machinations. This was clearly manifest in the affiliation of the German Emperor with the Pope during the World War.

John the Revelator said, "And he saith unto me, The waters which thou sawest, where the whore sitteth, are peoples, and multitudes, and nations, and tongues" (Rev. 17:15). The Pope claims the right to rule over the kings of the earth, compelling them to bow to his authority. Pope Gregory VII compelled Henry IV to travel over the mountains and to stand for three days barefooted in the snow doing penance and begging audience with His Majesty. To retain this power over kings and rulers has been the unchanging policy of the papacy down the ages.

"For all nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth are waxed rich through the abundance of her delicacies"

This Great Army for Truth and Americanism Makes Rome Tremble

(Rev. 18:3). This is none other than the Roman Catholic Church which has enslaved the human race wherever she has held the scepter of political power and has been numerically strong enough. By Jesuitical chicanery she has enriched her coffers and closed the eyes of the masses to the truth.

God's woes are pronounced upon the "Scarlet Mother." In Revelation 18:16 we read, "Alas, alas that great city, that was clothed in fine linen, and purple, and scarlet, and decked with gold, and precious stones, and pearls!" Then follows, "For in one hour so great riches is come to nought." The cardinals in the Roman Church wear the scarlet, also fine linen, and jewels that have cost mints of gold. The jewels in the triple crown are worth fabulous sums of money; and the corresponding wealth of the Vatican cannot be estimated. Cardinal Mundelein, after his elevation, it is said, wore, at a reception given him in Chicago, robes that cost $16,000. Note the difference between the cardinal and the meek and lowly Nazarene who said, "The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests; but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head."

“And the light of a candle shall shine no more at all in thee” (Rev. 18:23). Here is a reference to the candles burned at Roman Catholic shrines, and around the biers of the dead to light them through their so-called purgatory. The custom of burning candles comes from paganism; there is nothing in regard to the burning of candles taught in the New Testament. When people are facing eternity these candles are useless as a means of light, but this is another of Rome’s many idolatrous graft schemes to enhance her commercial interests. What a waste of money and foolish display is seen in the burning of these candles!

The hierarchy has so successfully carried out its purgatorial scheme as to have built up a system of graft by which millions of unsuspecting victims are robbed of their earnings, in the belief that if they pay the clergy enough money they can get their loved ones out of purgatory. This is undoubtedly the most infamous practise under the cloak of religion that was ever tolerated in the civilized world. The purgatorial scheme, together with that of transubstantiation—turning bread and wine into the actual body and blood of Jesus Christ —is the grand climax of bold effrontery to deceive the masses. The custom of the clergy of saying masses for the dead, with the promise of delivering them from punishment, is infamous. Those who would escape the plagues that are to be visited upon the "Old Mother" on the seven hills should do their part in exposing her many sorceries. We are now at the dawning of a new and better day. So much light has been thrown on Rome's old system of paganistic worship, it will be exceedingly difficult for her to continue in the work of deception as she has in the past. Persistent efforts are now being made in every part of the world to unseat her from the back of the beast.

The Archbishop of Venice, who became Pius X, said,

"The Pope is not only the representative of Jesus Christ, but he is Jesus Christ himself hidden under the veil of the flesh. Does the Pope speak? It is Jesus Christ who speaks. Does the Pope accord a favor or pronounce an anathema? It is Jesus Christ who pronounces the anathema or accords the favor. So that when the Pope speaks we have no business to examine. We have only to obey. We have no right to criticize his direction or discuss his commands. Therefore, everyone who would wear the crown ought to submit himself to Divine Right."

CHAPTER II

The Bible Description of the Pope

The Apostle Paul describes the Pope in the second chapter of 2 Thessalonians, as "the man of sin," or "the son of perdition." The characteristics of the man of sin show the very incarnation of Satanic ambition to rule the world. His true characteristic is also revealed in Rome's many publications, especially the official organ of the Vatican.

It is a well-known fact that the highest ambition of the papacy is to secure world supremacy for the man on the Tiber. Therefore we should keep up our campaign of enlightenment and present a solid front of protest against such a calamity befalling the human race.

From the Vatican organ, Sept. 30, 1899, the following is quoted:

"The Roman Catholic Church is free and independent of any earthly power, a sovereign society, the supreme head of which, the Pope, must be esteemed as kings. The Pope is sovereign because sovereign head of the Church which is sovereign mistress of the world. He is, therefore, not only Pope, but king of kings, head of humanity and of the world."

The Pope, therefore, as may be seen, is none other than the Antichrist, intent on seizing the reins of government and by Satanic power ruling the world. This is the goal for which the papacy strives. Make a comparison between the statement herewith quoted and the Apostle's description of the son of perdition, in 2 Thessalonians 2, and not a shadow of doubt as to the origin of the Romish Church could linger in your mind.

The description of the Pope here given is as clear as the noonday sun, and what further proof is needed?

The Bible was written for all ages, and is not a difficult book to understand. The Apostle says, in 2 Thessalonians 2:4-7: "Who opposeth and exalteth himself above all that is called God, or that is worshipped; so that he as God sitteth in the temple of God, showing himself that he is God....And now ye know what withhold-eth that he might be revealed in his time. For the mystery of iniquity doth already work; only he who now letteth [hindereth] will let [hinder], until he be taken out of the way." By this we understand that there were Satanic operations in Paul's day that have now headed up in Rome's paganistic system with its destructive influence and power. Caesar hindered the development of the papacy in Paul's day, as the Pope and Caesar could not have ruled at the same time.

The fourth chapter of Matthew gives an account of the devil's taking Jesus up into a high mountain and offering Him all the kingdoms of the world if He would fall down and worship him. But he failed to capture the world's Redeemer, who was both man and God. Undaunted by this defeat, Satan succeeded in finding the Pope and placing him, with the triple crown, on the throne at the Vatican, to corrupt and enslave earth's teeming millions.

It must be remembered that one day is with the Lord as a thousand years and a thousand years as one day. The Apostle says that "only he [God] who now letteth will let, until he [Caesar] be taken out of the way. And then shall that Wicked [Pope] be revealed, whom the Lord shall consume with the spirit of his mouth, and shall destroy with the brightness of his coming: Even him [Pope], whose coming is after the working of Satan with all power and signs and lying wonders, and with all deceivable-ness of unrighteousness in them [the Pope's followers] that perish; because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved, . . . that they all might be damned who believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness."

There are no people on the earth who are more willing to be deceived and to believe a lie than Rome's loyal subjects. They deify the Virgin Mary and worship old relics and dead saints. Their worship is almost identical with that of pagan Rome. And they do this under the blazing light of a Christian civilization. Nothing could be more sacrilegious and heathenish than Rome's transubstantiation dogma—teaching that the bread and wine in the sacrament are actually converted into the blood and flesh of Jesus Christ.

The Ku Klux Klan in Prophecy 17

No matter how corrupt the old Church is, her deluded followers are made to believe that they belong to the only true Church. This delusion is a fulfilment of prophecy in regard to believing a lie. So deceived and blinded are they that any reflection on the old paganistic system stirs them to the depths; and their resentment often results in outbursts of passion and violence.

The Scriptures are our only infallible authority for faith and conduct, but Roman prelates are doing all in their power to keep the Bible out of our public schools and out of the hands of the laity.

Is it any wonder that the "Scarlet Mother," who has laid under contribution all the powers of earth and perdition to combat scriptural enlightenment, is terrified at the sight of the white-robed army which has arisen in defense of our civil and religious liberties? God has raised up this great patriotic organization to unmask popery. The Apostle prayed to be delivered from unreasonable men; and none are more vicious and unreasonable than Rome's deluded followers.

gancy, and the white-robed army has appeared at the psychological moment to offset them in their purposes, and if they are not pleased with the program of the patriots, they have no one to blame but themselves. The Roman clergy openly declare that where civil law conflicts with the laws of their so-called Church, their subjects are absolved from obedience to the State.

The red-hatted cardinals in this country live in luxury and ease from off the hard-earned savings of their slaves—many of whom are women behind convent walls. These noted prelates are worming their way through the whole social fabric in the effort to make a last stand, and turn the reins of government over to the papal head.

The truths and principles for which our one hundred per cent American friends stand are as undying as God himself, and with the tread of conquerors they will go forward until the foes of liberty have been defeated.

The program of the "Scarlet Mother" has never changed since she burned men and women at the stake by the edicts of her highest officials, and, while she may not be openly consigning Christians to the flames now, one can readily see what she would do if she held the reins of government and commanded the army and navy.

Is Rome in politics? Read the following:

"The Pope alone has the right to define the limits of his own authority and the limits of the authority of the state; it is the Pope's duty to pronounce, not only on the rights of individuals, but of peoples, nations and their rulers."—Cardinal Manning.

"You have the voice of God speaking to you, and with pain and sorrow we are by duty to God and our Holy Father constrained to remind you of your faith when you vote as a citizen of this heretical nation.

"We call upon all lay Catholics having the means, education and acquaintance to become candidates for legislative offices, to sit in City Councils or Boards of Aldermen, in the State Legislatures, Congress or Senate. It is in these places that you can do the most good for our holy cause to reclaim this continent, which was discovered by a Catholic for the true Church.

"In addition to this valuable aid, as members of law-making bodies, they do great good for the Holy Church by impeding and frustrating legislation not approved by the Church, by securing larger appropriations for schools under the supervision of your worthy brothers and sisters; by having young priests appointed as chaplains in the Army and Navy."—Encyclical of Pope Leo XIII, dated January, 1890.

"The laws of the Church do not recognize ANY civil privileges as belonging to persons non-Catholic; their marriages are not valid; they live only in concubinage; their children, being bastards, are incapacitated to inherit; Catholics themselves are not validly married except they are united according to the rules prescribed by the Court of Rome, and when they are married according to these rules (those of the Catholic Church) the marriage is valid, even if in other respects they infringed all the laws of their country."—Pope Pius VII.

CHAPTER III

The 20th Century Reformation

On account of the abuses of religion by the Roman Catholic hierarchy, civilization had reached a universal crisis in the sixteenth century, when Martin Luther, the bold reformer—chosen instrument of God—was placed in the breach to prevent the wheels of progress from being reversed and the world from being plunged into even greater darkness than that of the Dark Ages.

The thousand years preceding the Reformation, known as Satan's Millennium, was brought on by the Romish Church, during which time millions of men and women poured out their blood as martyrs of the Christian religion. The humble German monk, creeping up Pilate's Stairway, in St. Peter's, on his hands and knees, received divine illumination that changed the whole course of his life. "His mind was suddenly impressed with the famous aphorism which became the motto of his life, namely, 'The just shall live by faith.' " With this slogan the greatest religious and political upheaval since the days of the crucifixion was precipitated, resulting in the launching of the Reformation. It was as if crosses had been lighted on thousands of hill-tops from which light was streaming into the dark recesses of Roman Catholic barbarity. However persistent were the efforts of the hierarchy to stay the hand of Omnipotence in this diffusion of light, they were unsuccessful; and it continued to stream from the cross of our crucified Redeemer and the pages of Holy Writ until it made saints and angels rejoice and devils fear and flee.

In the wisdom of God, America was discovered near the beginning of the sixteenth century, to be a refuge for those who were persecuted for righteousness' sake—those who were willing to die in behalf of religious liberty and political freedom. The Pilgrim Fathers, who had worshiped in the dens and caves, launched out on a perilous sea to endure the hardships of pioneer life among savages in the New World. In Revelation 12:13-16 we read, "And when the dragon saw that he was cast unto the earth, he persecuted the woman which brought forth the man child [Christ]. And to the woman were given two wings of a great eagle, that she might fly into the wilderness, into her place, where she was nourished,.... from the face of the serpent. And the serpent cast out of his mouth water as a flood after the woman [Protestant, or true Church] And the earth helped the woman,.... and swallowed up the flood which the dragon cast out of his mouth." The inference here is plain. The wilderness symbolizes the unbroken forests of the New World to which the persecuted Protestants fled; - and then Rome came across the great sea with her un-American hordes, to sweep away Protestantism as with a flood. For a time she was restrained, but she grows bolder in her assaults upon our institutions, in her efforts to make this country subserve the purposes of the Vatican.

But now come the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan in this crucial hour, to contend for the faith of our fathers who suffered and died in behalf of freedom. At the psychological moment they have arrived to encourage the hearts of those who have been battling heroically for the rights and privileges guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States.

How our hearts have been thrilled at the sight of this great army! Words fail to express the emotions of the soul at the appearance of this mighty throng upon the battlefield, where a few faithful followers of the lowly Nazarene have been contending for the faith once delivered to the saints, against papal mobs who have torn down gospel tabernacles, wrecked buildings and imprisoned Protestant worshipers. There are times when, overwhelmed with gratitude to God, I wonder if it is an illusion of the mind or actually true that the rescuers of the Constitution and the faith of the Revolutionary fathers are at hand.

The heroes of a new Reformation are here, robed in white, emblematic of the purity of the principles for which they stand, to protect our homes and religious rights and to make a bulwark around our free institutions, which our enemies are doing all in their power to destroy.

The World War was the signal for greater alarm than the average American has been willing to admit. Notwithstanding the sacrifices that were made at home and by the thousands of our young men who crossed the sea and laid down their lives on the battle-fields of the Old World, it has taken the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan to awaken even a portion of the population of the United States to our national peril. Our religious and political foes are not only within our gates, but are coming by the hundreds of thousands from the chaos and ruin of old European and Asiatic countries to un-Americanize and destroy our nation, and to make it serve the purposes of the Pope in his aspirations for world supremacy.

One of the great efforts of the Roman hierarchy toward this end is to censor books, and get control of our public schools by placing Roman Catholics on school boards and in the schoolrooms and in taking the Bible out of the schools. In the event of their success there would be a string of beads around every Protestant child's neck and a Roman Catholic catechism in its hand. "Hail Mary, Mother of God," would be on every child's lips, and the idolatrous worship of dead saints a part of the daily program.

The money-grasping Jew, who has no use for the Christ of Calvary, is doing all in his power to bring discredit on Christianity, and would be pleased to see the civil structure broken down, and in this way get rid of his responsibility for crucifying his Messiah and bringing the curse upon his race, which they have had to suffer since the beginning of the Christian era. The sons of Abraham have therefore become a strong ally to the papacy; they have nothing in common in religion, but they are one in their political propaganda against American institutions and principles.

While no true Christian has anything against the Jew, it must be admitted that this alliance with the papacy is a dangerous menace to our flag and country. The Jew is insoluble and indigestible; and when he grows in numbers and power till he becomes a menace to Christianity and the whole moral fabric, drastic measures will have to be taken to counteract his destructive work, and more especially when he is in alliance with the old papal machine.

The Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, who have sensed the danger, have been raised up by the Almighty at this critical time. They know the menace of foreign influence and power now presenting a solid front to our traditions and principles; and these one-hundred per cent Americans are coming from the farms, villages, hamlets, and great cities of every state in the Union, to prevent a complete collapse of our national polity. If things had gone on a few years more without interruption, the Constitution would have meant nothing more than a scrap of paper on the waste heap; but now that the spirit of patriotism has been aroused by our noble Klansmen, the religionists and political strategists of the Old World will find the goal for which they are striving is not so easily reached. Our white-robed Americans are not going to trifle or be trifled with. They will put the Bible in the public schools and in every other place where it belongs. They will build a fortress around our institutions and churches that will yet baffle the skill of the un-American hordes who would destroy the last vestige of true Christianity under the Stars and Stripes. They will enforce the laws of the land and protect pure womanhood, and properly adjust the racial question for the betterment of all concerned. They will maintain a free press and free speech, and defeat the plans of the Roman hierarchy to unite church and state and make America Catholic.

It is to be deplored that some Protestants are so blind as not to see the full import of this new Reformation. While the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan are grossly misrepresented, they bear the stamp of truth and will live to silence the mouths of their enemies, and plant their banner on the heights of victory. Reader, be sure that you are on God's side in this battle.

What Rome thinks of Protestants:

"Protestantism is simply ruffianism, organized into a religion. The first reformer, Martin Luther, was the vilest blackguard of all time. . . All his associates in the sacrilege of sanctuaries and sacking of religious houses were almost to a man of the lowest and beastliest morals."—Western Watchman, Sept. 28, 1911.

"Protestantism is not a religion—never was a religion. The most that could ever be said of it was that it was a form of rape and robbery masquerading as a religion, and a hypocrisy wearing the livery of Christianity to serve the seven deadly sins in. We must not forget that three-fourths of the people of the United States are unbaptized heathens; and in a world of that religious complexion the position of the Church of God must always be precarious."—The Western Watchman, November 12, 1914, page 10.

CHAPTER IV

A New Star Baffles Rome

Never has the "Scarlet Mother" been more active than now; and never has her true character been more conspicuously thrown in the foreground before the eyes of the masses. "The world moves," said Galileo; and so do the wheels of human progress.

The Chaldean shepherds, watching their flocks by night under a brilliant sky, did not fail to become familiar with the movements of some of the heavenly bodies. Their priests were astronomers and their temples observatories. But the eyes of the "Old Mother" fail to discern the movements of the stars in the constellation about her or to profit by the signals that are flashing forth her doom.

Her antiquated system may be compared to that of the Ptolemaic theory with its shafts and circles, cycles and epicycles, operating from a fixed center. The heavenly bodies were supposed to move at the ends of cranks and shafts; but each successive discovery made it more difficult to account for the movements of new bodies. It was found that more cranks and shafts were necessary to make the planet Mars keep pace with the world. This is not unlike the difficulties that Rome is now facing in trying to manage the movements of a new star that has arisen in her constellation. New "cranks" and "shafts" are wanted to check, if possible, its motion in space.

In every period of the world, astronomers have been baffled over the appearance of new bodies in the stellar regions, and there has been much conjecture as to the laws governing their movements. It would seem that at the present time, Rome, with her crude instruments of observation, has failed to grasp the magnitude of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, the Star of Hope, that has recently arisen in behalf of human progress. Strange and seemingly incomprehensible to them is this new Mars that is looked upon by all true patriots as the herald of a new and better age.

To Rome the K. K. K. is masked. To those who refuse to be incorporated in the old paganistic system the face of the new star is clear and beautiful. The most alarming thing, to its enemies, is its momentum and power of attraction; in other words, the influence that it is bringing to bear upon others in the constellation of hope.

When Rome loses the support of Protestants, her political doom is sealed. The fact is, in carrying out her program to make America Catholic, she has set her incubators and counted her chickens before they have had time to hatch; and suddenly, at the closing of the first quarter of the twentieth century, she is confronted with an army of patriots that threatens to put her parochial schools out of commission, and overthrow her political fortresses.

The efforts of the hierarchy to keep the Bible out of the public schools, which has met with success in many of the states, has aroused so much just indignation they need not be surprised at the enactment of laws such as were passed in Oregon, compelling children between the ages of eight and sixteen to attend the public schools. They have never been satisfied with prohibiting the use of the Bible in the parochial schools, but with ever increased activity have scheduled a program to force it out of the public schools.

In the natural and spiritual worlds there is a law of compensation that is destined sooner or later to even up the balances. The new star in the zodiac is the dynamic force to bring about an adjustment. Then why all this furor and ado about the K. K. K.? Nothing can now prevent it from fulfilling its mission.

A few years ago, after the match had been applied to the European powder magazine, young men had to be sent to training camps to prepare for the battle fronts. They needed the Bible to comfort and enlighten them, and Bibles and New Testaments were sent to them by train loads, to be distributed indiscriminately among Protestants and Catholics. The soldier boys learned to love the New Testament, which they often carried in an under pocket over their hearts, thus causing many a bullet to miss its mark, typical of the spiritual protection the Scriptures give to the soul. Had it not been for the Y. M. C. A. and other Protestant organizations no Catholic soldier would ever have received a copy of the Scriptures to enlighten and comfort him.

At the beginning of the war, Priest Burke made the statement that there were not five hundred copies of the Douay (Catholic) version of the New Testament in the United States, and that if Catholic soldiers were furnished with Testaments they would have to be gotten from British presses. The withholding of the Scriptures from the laity shows that Rome, true to her character in all ages, is the arch-enemy of civilization.

In my travels on sea and land, I have had ample opportunity to substantiate the facts that are herein set forth. Many Catholic soldiers lost faith in a religion that failed to give them comfort when looking into the face of the grim reaper. Many never lived to tell the story, but others have: and hence those who "sat in darkness have seen a great light" which is destined to transform society and hasten the Millennium, when righteousness shall cover the earth as the waters cover the sea.

CHAPTER V

Enemies of the Ku Klux Klan Stricken with Blindness

To live in these days of scriptural fulfilment, in one of the most eventful periods of the world's history, and not to be able to comprehend the significance of the rising of the Ku Klux Klan and the part that this great organization is destined to play in transforming and uplifting society, is to admit stupidity and blindness.

In the 6th chapter of 2 Kings we have an account of the Syrian host's being stricken with blindness "according to the word of Elisha." They were then led into captivity (Samaria) by the strategy of the prophet, where the king of Israel would have smitten them had not Elisha pleaded for their lives. Bread and water were set before them. "So the bands of Syria came no more into the land of Israel."

The maligners and persecutors of the Klan are blind to their own interests as well as to those of the country in which they live and find sustenance. They are unable to see that they are lined up on the wrong side of the greatest issues that ever confronted the welfare of a great people or nation.

In order to know the truth concerning the Klan one must first learn the character of its enemies, the relationship they hold to society, their code of morals, their politics and their religion. True religion has certain well-known moral standards that stamp it as genuine; and likewise, good politics upholds the principles of democracy and the welfare of the masses, who are not to be kept in ignorance and in a helpless, dependent condition to serve the purposes of a favored few in church and state.

For hundreds of years human destiny has been largely in the hands of a few ecclesiastical dignitaries and autocratic rulers, while the masses have been kept under the lash in bondage to the will of their masters. Where advancement has been made by the benefactors of society who have revolted under the hand of tyranny in great reforms (political or religious upheavals, such as characterized the Lutheran Reformation, and now that of the Ku Klux Klan), a desperate battle has ensued and the powers of darkness have been arrayed against every effort put forth to make the world a better and a safer place in which to live. The weak and helpless have been robbed and trampled under foot by religious and political tyrants and given no opportunity for enlightenment, scriptural or otherwise, or to become informed as to the character of the wicked and iniquitous systems by which they are controlled.

It is the program of the Ku Klux Klan to combat un-Americanism and to conduct a campaign of enlightenment, that truth may be made manifest.

When Rome takes up weapons against those who uphold the righteous principles of Americanism, she may expect to have her iniquitous system exposed. Isaiah said, "No weapon that is formed against thee shall prosper." Her deep-laid plots to rob native-born citizens of the heritage of their forefathers are now being uncovered, with the result that many of her own adherents are breaking away from her tyrannical rule.

John the Revelator tells us that those who take up the sword must likewise perish by the sword. Fallen human nature has never changed; it will assert itself under exposure, and thus the enemies of the Klan will perish by their own weapons. After all, the bread of truth is being set before them, and they may partake of it and make it a savor of life unto life, or if they refuse, it will become the instrument of death to their future happiness and prosperity.

Elisha prayed for the eyes of his servant to be opened so that he might see the armies of the Lord, with their horsemen and chariots of fire, encamped round about them. They were a host infinitely greater than those who were against them. Protestants who heretofore have had little conception of conditions as they really exist are becoming awakened and thoroughly aroused. Recruits are coming to the ranks of the K. K. K. now in uncounted numbers, and the movement has gained such momentum and power that nothing can stop it, composed as it is of the best manhood and womanhood of the country.

"Behold the mountain was full of horses and chariots of fire round about Elisha" (2 Kings 6:17).

There is no longer any excuse for those who, like Elisha's servant, have been blinded by the falsehoods propagated by the enemies of the Klan. Klansmen have proved their integrity in every assault that has been made upon them by their enemies. They are forming a bulwark around our Protestant churches so that our people may continue to worship God according to the dictates of their consciences as guaranteed by the Constitution.

For a time it has seemed that revivals of true religion were a thing of the past, but the great underlying causes have not been understood. Rome's system of intimidation and boycott has been working much more successfully than Americans have suspected. The rights of free speech and of peaceful assembly have been denied Protestants by Roman Catholic officials in every part of the United States where aggressive revival work has been instituted. But, thank God, a new day has come. Empty seats in the churches are being filled with patriotic men and women whose eyes have been opened to the Roman peril. Ministers, lawyers, doctors, in fact, professional men of all classes, are pledging their lives to the protection of our homes and institutions and the upholding of American principles. Platforms everywhere are literally ablaze with the best talent and oratory that the country affords. Many who never before realized their natural gifts are holding their audiences spellbound.

Politicians and others who for commercial or selfish purposes have been hasty in their decisions and criticisms against the Klan will have the remainder of their lives in which to regret their mistake; and among them are those who have had ample opportunity to learn the depths of iniquity to which the Roman hierarchy has gone to undermine the Constitutional rights of American citizens. The fact is, a super-government under the domination of the Roman Catholic machine has been in operation for years in almost every town and city in the United States. This unholy alliance dates back to the time the first Jesuit placed his foot on American soil.

As a subterfuge on the part of their enemies much is being said against the Klan helmet. But what about the followers of Ignatius Loyola, who have worn masks of a different character in the United States since the beginning of our national history, their object being to effect our complete undoing? There are those seeking the greatest honor the country can bestow upon an individual, who are determined to ignore this fact, in the meantime taking up arms against men who are mobilizing for law enforcement and to safeguard the nation.

An Infidel but for Three Things

A prominent man is reported to have said he would have been an infidel but for three things. He said, "First, I am a man. I am going somewhere. I am one day nearer the grave than at this time last night. I have read all that books tell me, but they shed not a ray of light upon the darkness. They shall not take away the only guide and leave me stone blind.

CHAPTER VI

Jonah—the Jew—A Fugitive from God

Jonah, who declared himself to be a Hebrew, is one of the most conspicuous and interesting characters of Bible history. With the exception of Job he is perhaps the least understood, since wrapped up in the simple story of his disobedience, punishment, and repentance lies the history, both past and future, of the Hebrew nation. One must have divine illumination and a prophetic vision to unfold the pages of Holy Writ and give to this generation the truth which is so necessary in this critical hour.

The Jew and his relationship to society must be properly understood and adjusted, inasmuch as he constitutes the rod of iron that is so often spoken of in the Scriptures. He is indigestible, inflexible, and unbreakable, as was proved in the case of Jonah in the stomach of the great fish. The Hebrew was discovered by the mariners, down in the sides of the ship fast asleep, while a mighty tempest was threatening immediate destruction. The disturbance of the elements while the fugitive passenger slept has a practical significance in national affairs today. The great tempest symbolizes war, such as has swept millions into eternity on the great sea of human life during the past few years, when Ships of State were threatened with utter destruction.

The mariners, looking into a watery grave, had tried to lighten the ship by casting some of its cargo into the sea, while Jonah continued his slumbers. Then the shipmaster cried, "What meanest thou, O sleeper? arise, call upon thy God, if so be that God will think upon us, that we perish not." In their utter extremity they cast lots to know for whose cause the evil was upon them, and the lot fell upon Jonah, who told them that he was a Hebrew and that he feared the God of heaven. When there was no abatement of the tempest he acknowledged that he was the cause of its fury and advised them to cast him overboard, that the sea might be calm unto them, frankly telling them that he had fled from the presence of the Lord. When he made known his nationality great fear came upon the mariners, and they were reluctant to cast him overboard, not wishing, as they said, to bring innocent blood upon themselves; and they rowed hard to bring the ship to land. But the sea continued to be tempestuous and there was nothing else to do but to consign their fugitive passenger to the mighty deep. In the meantime God had prepared a great fish to swallow Jonah, the "whale" being a type of the Gentile powers.

After three days of heroic effort the fish was unable to digest and assimilate the guest that had taken refuge in its stomach. There was not a bone in Jonah's body broken, for he successfully resisted the powerful digestive machinery in the stomach of the monster. What an illustration we have here of the Jew! For the past two thousand years, the Gentile powers have been unable to digest or assimilate him or break his solidarity. Though few in number, the Jews remain as much intact and as subservient to the old regime as they were when they rejected and crucified their Messiah; and although centuries have intervened, the Jews are as yet unrelenting. After Jesus had been sold for thirty pieces of silver by Judas, they cried, "Release unto us Barabbas [a notorious criminal] and crucify Jesus." And thus they put to death the world's Redeemer, perpetrating the greatest crime of the ages.

The unrepentant Hebrew is everywhere among us today as the strong ally of Roman Catholicism. Our Ship of State is now being lashed by the raging waters, and its utter destruction and also that of the Christian Church is inevitable unless the nations awake to their peril and see to it that the Jew occupies the place on the map of the world intended for him by the Creator. He must use the vast wealth that he has accumulated in Gentile countries, to reconstruct and occupy the land of his fathers. The aliens who have held that land for many centuries he must dispossess by the practise of the same individual thrift and industry which he has displayed in other lands. Otherwise he will take the Ship of State and all on board with him to the bottom of the sea. He must go back—a remnant at least—to the place where he crucified Christ, and there repent of his crime; and the sooner he does this the better for all concerned.

The "Scarlet Mother" is determined to unite church and state and make America Catholic. Thus would she destroy all the God-given rights of a free and liberty-loving people. Aided as she is now by the Jew with his accumulation of wealth, she has in the past few years become even a greater menace to our civil liberties and institutions.

This strange coalition under the domination of the Vatican is the last resort of Diabolus to destroy democracy and wrench the world from the grasp of Protestants. It is the strangest combination that has ever been known in history, since Roman Catholics have killed more Jews in the past than there are on the face of the whole earth today.

To think of our Hebrew friends with their millions in gold and silver aiding the Pope in his aspirations for world supremacy, is almost beyond the grasp of the human mind. But there is abundant evidence that it is true. Rome's purpose, however, is to use the Jew only so far as will enhance her cause, and at the psychological moment eliminate him, seize the reins and set up another Inquisition. Protestants and Jews alike then would be the victims of her tyranny.

Why are the sons of Israel with all their ancient lore so blind to the real purposes of the "Scarlet Mother"? Must it be conceded that, like Judas, they have completely sold out for dimes and dollars and become the catspaw for the papal monkey? They have never been treated so well in any other country as in the United States, but they have abused their privileges and turned traitors to their Protestant friends who have opened the doors of opportunity to them.

The City and State of New York furnish a splendid example of the coalition of Jews and Catholics, who are there holding the reins of government backed up by the notorious Tammany Hall. A picture is here thrown on the screen of the world over which angels weep and devils rejoice.

As a result of the repeal of the Mullan-Gage Enforcement Act, tens of thousands of criminals have been turned loose in the city and state. The state, having thus forfeited her sovereignty, is rendered powerless to handle and prosecute her own criminals, the responsibility being thrown entirely upon the Federal government.

The Jew has aided in all of this in open defiance of our laws. He wants gold, and it matters little to him how he gets it. An honest Gentile American cannot successfully compete with him in the commercial game. The Jews in New York City openly boast that they have the money and Rome the power, and that if they decide to rule the city and state, it is their prerogative.

The Old World commercial diplomacy has grown to such an extent in New York that real Americans are crowded out and it is almost impossible for anyone to do business who has not the mark of the beast on his forehead. The Jews have not only succeeded in largely controlling the finances of the country, but in aiding the Roman hierarchy they have determined to crush out the Protestant religion by breaking down the Christian Sabbath, dubbing the Bible a sectarian book and prohibiting it from being read in the public schools.

The great Jewish syndicates, the rulers and promoters of the motion picture industry, are striking death-blows to the morals of society and to American traditions and principles. There is no greater menace to the youth of the country than the "movies" with their immoral films and evil influences. In many states the Jews are running the theaters and the motion picture shows on Sunday, thus undermining Christianity by luring the multitudes away from the Protestant churches into these vile places of amusement.

The Jews, controlled by their ancient laws and customs, have but little respect for Gentile womanhood. They have procured young women whom fortune has favored with average good looks and intelligence, to enhance their own monetary interests in every conceivable occupation, paying little or no attention to the safe-guarding of the moral, the mental or the spiritual interests of these young women. Hundreds of thousands of white Gentile American women are under Jewish "bosses" in the "movies," dance-halls, sweat-shops, department stores and innumerable other places, including the white-slave dens, where the iron rod of the Hebrew is wielded.

But there is yet hope. The Knights of the Ku Klux Klan will adjust these alien relationships in our national polity, including the Roman Catholics, the servants of the Vatican. The Klansmen with their undying principles, with the tenets of the Christian religion, will uphold the Constitution and will see that church and state are not united under the triple crown. They will see that American-born citizens are not crowded off the map religiously, socially or politically. Judging by the rapid growth of this great organization, we dare to say that it is the instrument in God's hands to preserve our American ideals and institutions.

CHAPTER VII

Gideon's Army of 100 Percenters

Gideon's brave army, as recorded in the Book of Judges, was raised up to save the Hebrew nation from being completely swallowed up in Baal worship. The great apostasy was at its climax when Gideon the son of Joash, who had been threshing wheat by the winepress to hide it from the Midianites, tore down the altars of Baal, and cut down his groves by night. He then built an altar unto Jehovah and offered sacrifices.

It would have been useless to tear down the altars of Baal if the worship of the true God had not been established. When false religions are exposed, people must be offered something better.

At this time, the Lord has raised up the Invisible Empire to wage bloodless warfare against Rome's religio-political system, which has blasted civilization in every part of the

To prevent his enemies from taking ad-succeeded in tearing down Baal's altars. Some good Protestants wonder why the K. K. K.

of Holy Writ they would become enlightened.
It should not be a difficult matter for anyone to understand this. It is a well-known fact that the boycott is one of Rome's weapons against Gideon could not have accomplished his work in the sight of his enemies. In Egypt the followers of Moses did not attempt to would have had the advantage of them, hence their great leader asked permission to go a

It is a difficult matter now for the patriots to find a place to hold their Klaverns where they can peaceably assemble without being as-that has been going on down the ages.

Elijah said on one occasion that he was the only one left who had not bowed the knee to Baal, but he was informed that there were yet seven thousand who had not done so. "Seven" signifies perfection, and may be said to represent the white-robed army that has now multiplied until it numbers millions and is increasing with great rapidity. This army will yet prove, as in the days of Gideon, to be the barley cake that God is rolling down into the camp of the enemy.

"The Midianites and the Amalekites and all the children of the east lay along in the valley like grasshoppers for multitude; and their camels were without number, as the sand by the seaside for multitude" (Judges 7:12). But Gideon with his handful of brave men was represented by the barley cake—as seen in a dream—that rolled into the camp, knocking down the tents and putting the enemy to flight. Those brave Klansmen blew their trumpets, broke their pitchers, and, holding their lamps in their left hands, cried, "The sword of the Lord, and of Gideon." The hosts of Midian ran for their lives, and turned their swords

Ku Klux KlanHow to Gain Knowledge

Once upon a time, according to an old story, a young man went to Socrates, the Greek philosopher, and said: "Sire, I come to you in search of knowledge. I have heard much about you, and have come a long way to find you. Will you not tell me how I can gain knowledge?"

Socrates said: "Follow me." The youth followed Socrates to a body of water and was surprised to see him wade into it up to his waist. He followed him and Socrates grasped him by the arm and head and thrust his head under the water. He held him there until it seemed the youth would surely perish. He dragged him to the shore and waited for the youth to catch his breath, then said: "My boy, what did you most desire when I held your head under the water?"

The youth replied, "Air."

Socrates said: "Go your way and remember that when you want knowledge as much as you wanted air when you were under water, you will get it."

The following is from Archbishop [now Cardinal] Mundelein's Address to Knights of Columbus, reported in Chicago Evening American, March 9, 1916.

"I will expect you to be ready. I am your leader, your thinker, and your director. I will tell you what to do and will expect you to do it. I need you men. Never differ with your bishop. He thinks for you."

CHAPTER VIII

Feeding the Multitudes

The miraculous growth of the Invisible Empire is the astonishment of the world. The principles for which the organization stands are a sufficient guranty for its success, and wherever people prize their heritage in this great Republic, its phenomenal growth will continue.

Every individual in our commonwealth should contribute something toward his own happiness and protection, but how can he do this without enlightenment? If he is kept in ignorance as to the teachings of the New Testament and the principles of good government, instead of being an asset he is a liability.

Roman Catholicism is built upon a false foundation. There is no scripture to sustain its dogmas. The old regime built on ignorance, superstition, and tyranny would make dupes and slaves of the masses. The clergy claim the right to dominate the consciences of men and usurp the powers of earth, heaven, and hell.

Both medieval and present-day Romanism, the latter being headed by the Italian Pope, are almost identical with the old feudal systems of primitive ages.

Pagan Rome stubbornly contests every foot of progress and all true enlightenment, scriptural and otherwise. But nothing can stand before the tread of our great army of patriots who have declared for law enforcement, separation of church and state, free press and free speech, free education, and other great principles that make up the creed of Americanism. However reluctant the hierarchy may be to loosen their grip on the multitudes whom they have kept in bondage and ignorance, the "Scarlet Mother" is doomed to everlasting defeat.

James says, "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning" (James 1:17).

The United States was founded upon the principles of the Protestant faith, by those who were willing to hazard their lives among savages and wild beasts in an unbroken wilderness, and our Klansmen are determined that their achievements shall not be lost.

Archbishop Ireland is quoted as having said in Baltimore in 1889:

"Never, I believe, since the century began, the dawn of which was the glimmer from the Eastern Star, was there prepared for Catholics of any nation of earth a work so pregnant with consequences as that which is our measure of responsibility. THE WORK IS TO MAKE AMERICA CATHOLIC. Our cry shall be, 'God wills it,' and our hearts shall leap towards it with crusader enthusiasm."

Had the Archbishop lived to see the rising of the Invisible Empire, his ardor might have been cooled. And Bishop Gilmore, of Cleveland, Ohio, might not have been so bold in his statement that "Nationalities must be subordinate to [Catholic] religion, and must learn that we are Catholics first and citizens next."

If Priest Hecker could have seen this army of patriots, he might have been more guarded in his statement in the Catholic World, when he said,

"The Roman Catholic is to wield his vote for the purpose of securing Catholic ascendancy in this country."

Where Rome is operating to keep the masses from becoming enlightened she is meeting a more formidable front in the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan than she has heretofore encountered. It is the tyranny imposed by keeping people in ignorance, that this great organization has been raised up to resist. They will no longer tolerate Rome's propaganda to undermine our laws and our free institutions.

Many spineless Protestants have ever been ready to choose the path of least resistance. It has taken this army of crusaders to awaken them and make them realize their peril. The Fiery Cross today is everywhere lighting up the dark ravines of papal iniquity, where ignorance, superstition, and corrupt politics have held undisputed sway. The truth that is now being made manifest is destined to bring about a transformation in the country, morally, socially, industrially, religiously, and politically. Inspired by the great army of patriots who have arisen, the multitudes are everywhere falling in line.

Two Pertinent Questions Answered

Who are opposing the order known as the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan?

The Roman Catholic Church, together with its military arm the Knights of Columbus, the apostate Jews, some negroes, former brewers and distillers, bootleggers, rum-runners, white slavers, gamblers, harlots, wife-beaters, thieves, murderers, crooked politicians, law-breakers generally, and a few honest but misinformed American-born Protestants.

Who are members of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan?

CHAPTER IX

The Good Samaritan

In all ages when an emergency has been created by the foes of human rights God has proved Himself equal to the occasion and has been found on the side of the oppressed. History and the Scriptures furnish ample proof of this. The Psalmist says, "The mercy of the Lord endureth forever," and where human rights are violated divine intervention never fails to follow.

*"God moves in a mysterious way
His wonders to perform;
He plants His footsteps in the sea
And rides upon the storm."*

He may not always be recognized in the various guises in which He appears, but be assured He will contend for His own supremacy and punish His rivals.

In the 10th chapter of Luke we have the story of a man who went from Jerusalem down to Jericho and fell among thieves. This man was wounded and robbed and left half dead by the wayside. "There came down a certain priest that way: and when he saw him, he passed by on the other side. And likewise a Levite, when he was at the place, came and looked on him, and passed by on the other side. But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was: and when he saw him, he had compassion on him." As all who are acquainted with the story know, the Good Samaritan bound up the wounds of the man, poured in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast and brought him to an inn and took care of him until the next day. He then paid the bill and offered to meet any other obligations that might arise for the care of the stranger.

When the curse fell upon the human race man was wounded and left half dead, robbed of his purity and fellowship with the Almighty, and his only hope for restoration is through the sacrifice of Christ on Calvary. Isaiah plainly states that He came to "bind up the broken-hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound."

It is the work of the Church to preach Christ to the perishing world, but instead of this, Rome, in the name of religion, has wounded, robbed and penalized the human race down the ages. She has enslaved her victims and locked them up in prison houses, not only depriving them of their liberty, but enslaving their minds and consciences as well. She has made them victims of the most extreme views in regard to penalties for their sins, ignoring the blood of the atonement and making them suffer bodily torture in expiation for their sins, for all of which there is no scriptural endorsement. The command to go into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature is utterly ignored, as is also the one to break every yoke and let the captives go free. She has kept the multitudes in bondage and spiritual darkness, and divine retribution is at hand.

At the psychological moment the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan appeared on the stage of humanity with a creed that consists of the basic principles of human progress and happiness, and which is perfectly in accord with the principles of the New Testament. This multitude of patriots are not only the custodians of liberty, but of the whole social and moral structure, involving both politics and religion. America was the last country on the globe to be discovered and must stand out as a beacon.

When the keynote of true patriotism is sounded the best moral and spiritual fiber in man's being is brought into action. These men and women must be the standard-bearers for the whole world.

In mechanical enterprises; improvements are continually being made on old models, the latest therefore must necessarily take the lead, and it savors not of egotism to say that at this time the eyes of the world are on the United States.

The Almighty in His wisdom has chosen both men and women of dependable character and is enlisting them under the Stars and Stripes and the Fiery Cross to bring about a transformation for the betterment of society. The members of this great organization are the Good Samaritans of this age, breaking the bread of life to those who have been the victims of ecclesiastical and political tyranny. May they continue to multiply and prosper in the work to which they have been called by the all-wise Creator, who works in His own time and way to correct social and political evils and to punish the guilty.

Bow or Burn

When Nebuchadnezzar, the King of Babylon, set up his golden image (Dan. 3), the command was to all peoples and nations to prostrate themselves and worship it, or be cast into the burning fiery furnace. Likewise, he had the furnace heated exceedingly hot to receive those who should refuse to obey his mandates.

While the image, nearly one hundred feet high, was glistening in the sun, the clarion notes of musical instruments were sounded, and the multitude, representing every nation under the heavens, fell before it.

But, behold, there were three men who stood upright, refusing to bow, while the seething flames of the furnace were licking out their fiery tongues to receive them. These men, the worshipers of the true and living God, feared not the edicts of a heathen king, nor to die in behalf of a righteous cause.

laws and in the persecution of Protestants. This criminal element will throw stones, mob speakers, tear down tabernacles, destroy church and other property, and flourish revolvers in the faces of non-Catholic communicants, while the hierarchy keeps under cover and tries to disclaim responsibility.

Rome hates the Klan because every principle for which this great organization stands is an indictment against her secret diplomacy in her efforts to unite church and state, seize the reins of government and make America Catholic. If successful she would be in command of the army and navy, and ready to enforce the edicts of her iniquitous system upon our citizenry.

At this time, when public sentiment is crystallizing against Rome's propaganda, she has much to say about religious intolerance, as if this intolerance were against her freedom of worship and participation in political affairs, when the truth is she has largely controlled the field, and the result of her intolerance has been to bring an army of patriots to the front of the battle. According to her own statements, she has always been intolerant, except so far as it has been to her interest to use a cloak of deception for the time being to further her own cause. She has worked silently and secretly to accomplish her aims.

A declaration of principles is one thing, but the maintenance of those principles is quite another. The "Scarlet Mother's" political agencies are enemies of free government, as her own creed and the statements of her highest prelates will show. As far back as April, 1845, Bronson's Review, a Catholic publication, is quoted as saying:

"If the Church should direct the Catholic citizens of this American republic to abolish the Constitution, the liberty and the very existence of the country as a sovereign state, and transfer it to the crown of Louis Napoleon Bonaparte, they are bound by a divine ordinance to obey."

"In the Syllabus of Pius IX, issued December, 1864, claimed by the hierarchy to be equal to the Decalogue, we find the following:

"The state has not the right to leave every man free to embrace whatever religion he shall deem true.

"The Church has the right to exercise her power without the permission or the consent of the state.

"The Church has the right of perpetuating the union of church and state.

"The Church has the right of requiring the state not to permit free expression of opinion."

"The people are not the source of civil power."

"The Church has the right to avail itself of force, and to use the temporal power for that purpose."

"The Church and her priests have the right to immunity from all civil laws."

Rome has so corrupted the Democratic Party north of the Mason and Dixon Line that the time has come for a change of policy on the part of the Solid South. Politicians will have to cease truckling before the giants of human depravity such as are opposed to those who are trying to maintain American ideals and principles. The patriots have finished with Rome's subterfuges and are determined that she shall come out in the open and meet the issue. Her intolerance with all of its colorful aspects has reached an acute stage, and the patriots are determined to force her into the foreground and have her face her record, where religious liberty and freedom of speech have been abridged and the press throttled in the interests of the "Scarlet Mother." Many instances could be cited where interference by Roman Catholic police has prevented Protestants from exercising their constitutional rights in religious worship, not only in the open air, but in their own church edifices, where worshipers have been arrested and thrown in jail —locked up in vile, filthy cells and made to serve time as common criminals, for no greater offense than that of singing hymns or giving personal testimony as to spiritual deliverance brought to them through the blood of Christ. Such experiences were had at Plainfield, New Jersey, in 1915, and even later, where religious intolerance under the supervision of Roman Catholic officials was demonstrated in its rankest form.

We hail the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan as the defenders of our religious and civil liberties. These men will burn rather than bow to the Romish gods and their triple-crowned head in the Vatican. As to the fiery furnace, their enemies have heated it more than seven times, but as yet our noble Klansmen have emerged from the flames without the smell of fire upon their garments.

Klansmen, with their undying principles, will yet be promoted to the highest offices of the country and will hold the reins of government, as truly as Omnipotence rules. They will see the time when their enemies will be humbled in the dust for ever having raised the religious issue, making it necessary for them to rise up in defense of Americanism.

K u l s

Following are some statements showing Rome's attitude toward the Government.

"And why is it that the Church is strong; why is it everybody is afraid of the Catholic Church? And the American people are more afraid of her than any people in the world. Why are they afraid of the Catholic Church? They know what the Catholic Church means. It means all the Catholics of the world; not of one country, or two countries, but all the countries of the world.

"And it means more than that; it means that the Catholics of the world love the Church more than anything else, that the CATHOLICS OF THE WORLD LOVE THE CHURCH MORE THAN THEY DO THEIR OWN GOVERNMENT, MORE THAN THEY DO THEIR OWN NATION, more than they do their own people, more than they do their own fortunes, more than they do their own selves.

"We of the Catholic Church are ready to go to the death for the Church. Under God, she is the supreme object of our worship. Tell us that we think more of the Church than we do of the United States; of course we do. Tell us we are Catholics first and Americans or Englishmen afterwards; of course we are.

"Tell us, in the conflict between the Church and the civil government we take the side of the Church; of course we do. Why, if the government of the United States were at war with the Church we would

"The Church never can come into its own until there are more Catholics in Congress. The Church never will wield the influence for good which it should possess until this comes to pass. CHAPTER XI

Rome in Control of City Governments

Before the Ku Klux Klan arose to espouse the cause of Americanism, Roman Catholic police patrolled the streets of our cities and towns in almost every nook and corner of the United States, and as yet they have not relinquished their hold except where they have been compelled to do so after having resorted to every conceivable device to hold the reins of power.

The one great object of Rome has been to crush Protestantism, hence she has ever been the enemy of free speech and a free press. Protestants have been thrown in jail with the worst of criminals for no greater offense than singing hymns or giving simple gospel messages. Scores of instances could be given where in recent years Christian workers have been thus imprisoned.

There has been no conscientious effort on the part of Roman Catholic police to protect Protestants in the exercise of their constitutional rights of free speech and peaceable assembly. Everywhere intolerance has been practised, and because of this the Invisible Empire has providentially arisen. Before the tread of this mighty army was heard, a person who wished to exercise his right of free speech out under God's canopy had to make up his mind to run the risk of going to jail and bearing the stigma of the publicity that would follow through the Romanized press.

Bolshevism, which has tried to overrun all Europe, is the outgrowth of tyrannical systems, more especially that of Roman Catholicism. When once the bands of tyranny have been broken and ignorance grasps the scepter, there is no respect for law. Where could a greater number of lawless characters be found than under the autocratic regimes of popery or similar dynasties? Lenin and Trotsky are examples of the leaders such intolerable conditions produce. Bolshevism came like a roaring lion to storm the fortresses of liberty, whereas Rome, in disguise, is a double-faced Janus. She can play the saint when it suits her purpose to do so, or stick a match to the powder magazine and set the world afame in like a proscribed war and bloodshed.

To gain her object, she has commenced at the bottom, and, placing her loyal henchmen on the police staff, has succeeded to an alarming extent in capturing our city governments. Her design is not only to crush Protestantism, but to supply her institutional workhouses and prison retreats with slaves. Wayward or delinquent girls are committed by police judges to so-called Houses of the Good Shepherd where, according to the statements of those who have been fortunate enough to make their escape, they must eke out an existence worse than death.

The old system is incompatible with American democracy. There is no place under the Stars and Stripes for Roman Catholic institutions with their high stone walls and iron bars. Conditions have reached an acute stage and the question is, Who will be the winner? Protestant America cannot afford to sleep and let the alien hordes, who have sworn allegiance to the man on the Tiber, rob them of their God-given heritage. Every person who prizes his birthright should do his part to see that our city governments are conducted on principles that harmonize with the Constitution, and in order to do this none but Americans should be placed on guard.

While girls are being confined in the papal prisons, the hierarchy is placing the ban on our public schools, stigmatizing them as the cesspools of iniquity. The following are quotations from the papal press:

“Unless you suppress the public school system as at present conducted, it will prove the damnation of the country.”—Priest Walker.

“It will be a glorious day in this country when under the laws the school system will be shivered to pieces.”—Catholic Telegram.

“We must take part in the elections, move in solid mass in every state against the party pledged to sustain the integrity of the public schools.”—Cardinal McClosky.

“The day is not far distant when the Catholics, at the order of the Pope, will refuse to pay school tax and will send bullets into the breasts of the officials who will attempt to collect them.”—Msgr. Cappel.

The above quotations will give the reader some idea of the attitude of Rome toward our public schools.

If the stories told by those who have escaped from the convents and the H. O. G. S. are not true, why are the doors of these institutions not opened for governmental inspection? Why do not the clergy clear themselves of the charges that have been made against them? So far they have fought to the last ditch to prevent inspection and to keep up these stone walls.

THE DEFENDERS OF THE PUBLIC SCHOOL

We have lived to see autocratic rulers in the Old World overthrown, the Prohibition Amendment placed upon the statute books in the United States, and women enfranchised. Shall we not also see these papal prisons thrown open and their inmates made free?

K u l s

A Roman Catholic publication has this to say about education:

"We do not indeed prize as highly as some of our countrymen seem to do the simple ability to read, write, and cipher. The best ordered and administered state is that in which the few are well educated and led, and the many are trained to obedience, are willing to be directed, content to follow, and do not aspire to be leaders. We believe the peasantry in old Catholic countries two centuries ago were better educated, although for the most part unable to read and write, than are the great body of the American people today."—The Catholic World for April, 1870.

CHAPTER XII

Papal Contention for Rulership of the World

So long as people continue to ignore the part that Roman Catholicism has played in the political history of the world, they cannot expect the lasting peace which they so much desire. The causes of war are better understood by many weak and spineless Protestants than they are willing to admit; and while they refuse to accept the truth that is becoming more and more apparent, there is no alternative for them but to suffer the consequences.

During the World War the wrath of God struck at the very foundation of the old papal system; and the failure to recognize this only prolonged the struggle. Some facts that had long been concealed were made manifest when the nations were at great extremity. Now that they have a breathing spell, the tendency is to keep the truth under cover, but sooner or later the smouldering fires will be fanned by the winds of fate into a greater conflagration than the world has ever known.

God has undertaken the work of dethroning Antichrist (the Pope) and establishing righteousness in the earth, and His judgments will continue to fall until His object has been accomplished.

As is seen in the fourth chapter of Matthew, where Christ was tempted in the wilderness, Satan is contending for the rulership of the world. He first tried to get Jesus to turn stones into bread. Failing in this he took Him to the Holy City and set Him upon a pinnacle of the temple. Failing again, he took Him to a high mountain, showing Him all the kingdoms of the world and their glory, promising to make Him ruler over them if He would only fall down and worship him.

In each of the three attempts made to seduce the Son of God, Satan was defeated by the written Word. He lost all of his ammunition, and so left Jesus for a time. Each time that Christ was approached He said, "It is written," and thus His arch-foe was repulsed, and He was left alone to be ministered to by angels.

If the Son of God had yielded to Satan's demands, He would have lost His divinity and become the first pope. The plan of redemption would thus have been thwarted and the world placed under the scepter of the king of darkness.

"And the Star Spangled Banner in triumph shall wave, O'er the land of the free, spite of Rome and the knave."

To succeed in obtaining the rulership of the world Satan then began to work out another plan, perfecting it about the beginning of the seventh century when the first pope was elected (A. D. 606), who with his successors was to be Satan's own incarnation. At one time there were three popes, each claiming to be the successor of St. Peter. Some of the popes have been the most depraved and licentious men ever known in the annals of history, guilty of the worst of crimes, living in concubinage, dying of incurable diseases, etc.

The startling revelations of corruption that characterized the lives of these so-called god-men have blackened the pages of history. The whole system shows that the devil has never given up his program to rule the world through a demonized agency. The claim that the papal head has the keys of earth, hell, and heaven is a glaring example of Satanic audacity.

The Roman clergy claim the power to change the sacramental bread and wine into the actual flesh and blood of Jesus Christ. It would seem impossible that people in this enlightened age should accept such erroneous teachings and continue to bow at Rome's idolatrous shrines. If they would only read the Word of God and make it the "man of their counsel" they would not be so easily deceived.

The "Scarlet Mother's" greatest ambition is to secure temporal power, and herein lies our danger. When America was discovered, the Pope calmly announced that he would divide the new world into two parts, giving one part to the king of Spain and the other to the king of Portugal.

The foes of freedom have but one object,—the enthralment of the human race. But with the spirit of sacrifice that is now being manifested by the men and women of the Ku Klux Klan, the Papacy is doomed in the United States. The fiery cross will continue to shed its illuminating rays on the benighted multitudes, while the Stars and Stripes, so heroically raised over the battle-fields of the Revolution, will continue to lead the hosts to victory. Non silba sed anthar.

A Phenomenon

A colored preacher used the word "phenomenon" in his sermon. Some of the "brudren" waited upon him after the service to know what "dat big word" might mean. He promised to "splain" it to their satisfaction.

The next Sunday brought a houseful to hear the explanation. The preacher said, "Well, if we were walkin' down de lane and we see a donkey dere, it would not be a phenomenon; no, that wouldn't be a phenomenon. Now if we saw a thistle bush by the way, dat wouldn't be a phenomenon. If we saw a lark singin' in de sky, dat wouldn't be a phenomenon. Oh no! But if you were to see a donkey sittin' on a thistle bush and singin' like a lark, dat would be a phenomenon."

About To Go Up

Sambo was not feeling well and went to the doctor. His wife went with him, but she waited at the bottom of the stairway. The doctor told Sambo that he was in a bad fix, that he had salivated glands, a torpid liver and was liable to drop off at any time. Sambo came down the stairway with his eyes bulging out and greatly excited, saying to his wife, "Keep away from me, woman. I have salvation in my glands, a torpedo in my liver and am liable to go up any time."

The Kittens

A Catholic priest met a boy who was carrying a basket. "What have you in the basket?" he asked. "Some Catholic kittens," replied the boy. The Father was pleased, of course. A few days later he met the same boy again with the basket and he said, "How are the Catholic kittens, my boy?" "They are no longer Catholics, Father," replied the boy. "Why," asked the priest. "Because," said the boy, "they have their eyes open."

CHAPTER XIII

A Patriot's Prayer

O Lord, hear Thou my prayer
For a revival true,
Where Thine own Word is preached
That makes men's hearts anew.

The world is full of strife,
While men to idols cling;
O may they worship Thee,
Our only Priest and King.

Unless men turn from sin,
The world must weep in blood;
Help them to break their chains
And love and trust Thy word.

The Gospel must be preached
To creatures here below
To save them from their guilt
And everlasting woe.

With altars broken down,
The children turn aside
To roads of downward trend
And gates that open wide.

The Bible is not read
In our own public schools,
Since aliens came across—
And made for us new rules.

They have their program set
For both the church and state,
And none have protest made
Until of recent date.

They've come, O Lord, to us
From countries o'er the sea
And broken standards down,
And turned men's hearts from Thee.

To counteract their work,
O God, for help we ask,
For plain it is to see
We must go at the task.

The great apostasy
Now everywhere is found,
And men grow faint and cold
Where sin and crime abound.

But courage we should take
To press the battle on Until we reach the goal
And victory is won.

With enemies we've borne
And closed our eyes to sin;
We've opened wide our gates
And let the hordes come in.

THE COMING CONFLICT

But to the danger now
Our Klansmen are awake,
While others still would sleep,
E'en though the earth should quake.

Ofttimes we have been warned,
And e'en from early youth,
But some will not take heed
Though well they know the truth.

In money-making schemes
So many are engaged,
And when they hear the truth
They fly into a rage.

And thus with some excuse
They hold themselves aloof
And oft the truth have spurned --
Of which there's ample proof.

The thought of losing trade
Is more than they can bear,
And thus they compromise
And loathe the house of prayer

But we the tide must stem
Of worldliness and pride,
And purpose in our hearts
E'er faithful to abide;

For there is coming soon
A crisis in this land,
If people do not wake
And lend a helping hand

In ev'ry onward move
To save the church and state--
While foes within our gates
Our institutions hate.

"Then, Father, hear our prayer
Revive Thy work again;
His name we plead, who died
To save the lost. Amen."

CHAPTER XIV

Rome Intercepted

Since the rising of our great army of patriots Rome's path to world supremacy has been obstructed. She is beginning now to realize that insurmountable obstacles have been placed in her way. Political Romanism has become so accustomed to the stupidity and apparent indifference of Protestants that even those in the highest positions imagined that the goal was not far away, and it was evident that they were not anticipating a great white-robed army to appear on the field of action and thwart their plans. But history will show that down the centuries surprises have been sprung by an all-wise God upon those who have tried to usurp the throne of power and rule with a rod of iron.

Where tyrannical hands have held the reins of government, there has always come a reaction. It was so in the days of Nebuchadnezzar and of the Pharaohs in Egypt, as well as in more recent years. Divine retribution may be delayed, but God never fails to punish the wicked. Isaiah 40:28 says, "Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the Lord, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? there is no searching of his understanding." It must, therefore, be conceded that God's ways are not man's ways, and that His secrets are with those who fear Him. He delights to do the unexpected when the odds are seemingly against His people.

When the Invisible Army appeared contending for the faith of our fathers there was consternation in the camp of the enemy, and as yet it has not abated. This fact was featured in nearly every newspaper in the country, owned or controlled by other than true Americans. The Romanized press rang the alarm bells, and cried, "Tar-buckets, floggers, thieves, murderers," etc., but never in a single instance have they been able to prove their accusations against our one hundred per cent American friends—the protectors of our homes and the defenders of the Constitution.

They have had much to say about the so-called hooded order, condemning their regalia, and more especially the visor. They have tried to make believe that the Klan was trying to set up a super-government and carry out its program contrary to law. But time has cleared the atmosphere where so many falsehoods have been propagated, and left the foes of liberty in an unenviable position. It has at last been established that the Romanized press cannot be relied upon for the truth, and innumerable publications have sprung up all over the country, making bare its deception and iniquity.

The visor worn by the patriots is a potent indictment of Rome's religio-political system with its secret machinations that have been operating under cover for ages. It has been necessary, therefore, to use such wisdom as divine authority has sanctioned in meeting such a foe. The boycott in the commercial game has been one of the strongest weapons in the hands of the "Scarlet Mother." Her methods have ever been such as to undermine any legiti-miate enterprises of Protestants in the industrial world where her own interests could be advanced.

Satan is contending for the rulership of this world, and must have human agencies through which to work. The great battle of Armageddon will be fought (according to Holy Writ), and the result will be the overthrow of the papacy, the most effectual weapon of satanic power the world has ever known.

The white-robed army has been raised up to save the cause of humanity, and their program will be carried out preparatory to God's castigatory judgments falling upon the "Scarlet Mother" on the back of the beast.

Political Romanism lost much ground when the Pope, with the sword of the Kaiser, failed to cut his way through to Buckingham Palace in 1914, at the beginning of the great war. With England conquered, the hierarchy thought the United States would soon be in the grip of the papal hand.

The four years' struggle was a great eye-opener, not only to the multitudes of unenlightened soldiers, but to earth's teeming millions who had been in ignorance as to the aims and purposes of the "Scarlet Woman" so vividly described in the eighteenth chapter of Revelation. When there was a cessation of hostilities, God raised up the white-robed army in the United States to wage bloodless warfare and in a more definite way to continue to enlighten the people.

Rome has been relentless in her fight against the Bible and our public school system. She has worked openly and secretly to keep the Scriptures out of the hands of the masses and to destroy our institutions, and had well-nigh succeeded in some places when the patriots came to the rescue.

K u l l s

Rome's Attitude Toward the Public Schools

"The children of the public schools turn out to be horsethieves, scholastic counterfeiters, and well versed in schemes of deviltry. I frankly confess that Catholics stand before the country as the enemies of the public schools. They are afraid that the child that left home in the morning would come back with something in his heart as black as hell."—Priest Phelan St. Louis, Oct., 1873.

"I do not consider that we are doing our duty as American citizens, to ourselves, or to our children in permitting such a system of public schools to exist as we have today."—Prof. Dunne of the Jesuit College Washington, D. C.

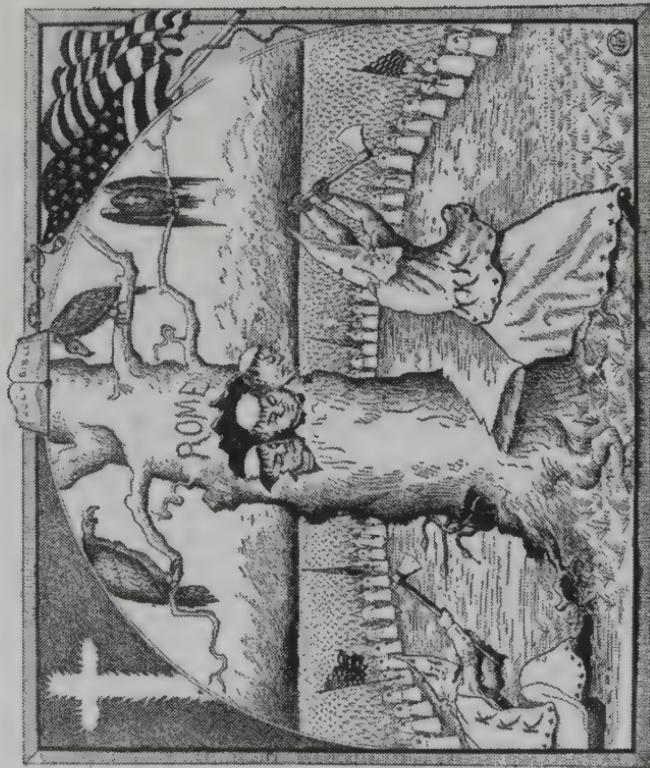

CHAPTER XV

The Axe Laid at the Root of the Papal Tree

John the Baptist was sent as a messenger from God to rebuke fallen Judaism. He declared the axe was laid at the root of the tree; and amidst the thunderings of primitive oratory this mighty preacher of the desert wielded the gospel axe, revealing the fact that the wrath of God was destined to overthrow the old ecclesiasticism that had become so corrupt as to stone and kill the prophets of the Lord and reject their own Messiah.

In the branches of this sycamine (black mulberry) tree were lodged every unclean and hateful bird; and at the appointed time, the man of the desert appeared clad in camel's hair and with a leathern girdle about his loins, his meat being locusts and wild honey.

This prophet of the new dispensation scorned the rich man's dainties, and was under no obligation to the hierarchy for material support. He knew the trees of the forest, those that were useless as well as those that contributed to the needs of mankind. He came not in the garb of an ecclesiastical dignitary, but in that of an axeman. The hour of extremity had been reached; it was no time to court the favor of those high in official positions and cry, "Peace, peace," and prophesy smooth things. Sledge-hammer blows were necessary to bring down the tree that had become hopelessly corrupt. The old ecclesiasticism was dominated by false prophets and wicked rulers who cried, "Release unto us Barabbas and crucify Christ." The Savior of the world was subjected to the basest insults and most inhuman treatment and was condemned to die on a wooden cross between the worst of criminals.

Now at the close of the Gentile dispensation, we have another tree which is even more wicked, that of Romanism, which has proved a menace to Christianity and the civilized world. It has corrupted the human race and kept back the wheels of progress for nearly two thousand years, and the wrath of a righteous God is burning against it. Hence, the necessity of a great patriotic organization that will lay the axe at the root of the tree of papal power and cut it down.

The Almighty works through human agencies, and it has pleased Him at this time to marshal the hosts of the best blood in America and lead them to victory as they wield the instruments of truth against Rome's old paganistic system, which is striving to unite church and state and place the Pope on the throne to dominate the world. There is no power at this stage of human progress that can stay the hand of Omnipotence. Truth on the wings of the morning under the banner of the Invisible Empire, is flying to the uttermost parts of the earth, and the watchers of the night herald the tidings of a new day. "Babylon [Roman Catholicism] the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird. . . . Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues. For her sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities" (Rev. 18:2-5).

Judaism boasted of her lineage, her sons claiming to be the children of Abraham, just as Rome claims apostolic succession, but when the old theocracy became so corrupt that it was a menace to Christianity, the old tree had to go.

Rome has multiplied her sorceries and her shrines, yielding allegiance to none but the triple-crowned head on the Tiber. All rulers, the Roman Catholic clergy say, are but altar boys compared to their "infallible" head. Her slavish worship and her vain repetitions hold people in galling chains, bound to a corrupt and idolatrous system that has become intolerable to the ideals of true democracy. The Ku Klux Klan with the principles of true Americanism will shatter her iniquitous fortresses and save us from the hand of political tyranny that is threatening to destroy Protestantism.

K u l s

The Tablet (R. C.), New York is reported as saying:

"The public school system is a swindle on the people, an outrage on justice, a foul disgrace in matters of morals, and should be abolished."

KULLS

His Old Father Satisfied

Thirty years ago a discouraged young doctor in one of our large cities was visited by his old father, who came in from the farm to look after his boy.

"Well, son," he said, "how are you getting along?"

"I'm not getting along at all," was the disheartened answer. "I'm not doing a thing."

The old man's countenance fell, but he spoke of courage and patience and perseverance. Later in the day he went with his son to the "Free Dispensary," where the young doctor had an unsalaried position, and where he spent an hour or more every day.

The father sat by, a silent, but intensely interested spectator, while twenty-five poor unfortunates received help. The doctor forgot his visitor while he bent his skilled energies to his task; but hardly had the door closed on the last patient when the old man burst forth:

"I thought you told me you were not doing anything! Why, if I had helped twenty-five people in a month as much as you have in one morning, I would thank God that my life counted for something."

"There isn't any money in it, though," explained the son, somewhat abashed.

"Money!" the old man shouted, still scornfully. "Money! What is money in comparison with being of use to your fellow men? Never mind about money; you go right along with this work every day. I'll go back to the farm, and gladly earn money enough to support you as long as I live—yes, and sleep sound every night with the thought that I have helped you to help your fellow men."

CHAPTER XVI

The Protectors of True Americanism

It is not for man to say from what source help is to come at this critical hour of our national existence. If God sees fit to work in behalf of His own cause and kingdom through an "Invisible Empire," it is useless for man to make a protest. Revelation 11:15 says, "The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ." It is for the kingdoms of this world that pagan Rome is striving. She has spread her dragon wings over nearly all the realms of man in her efforts to set aside the claims of Christ and usurp the throne, with the result that thrones and kingdoms have come to desolation.

Where the "Scarlet Mother" has been forced to loosen her grip in some places she has become more active and determined to strengthen it in others, and thus with a zeal that knows no abatement she has kept up the struggle since the days of Constantine, determined to wear the crown and hold the scepter. Rome has never been able to succeed where people have had scriptural enlightenment, and for this reason she has fought desperately to keep the Bible out of the hands of the masses.

God favored His ancient people as long as they kept themselves from the idolatry of the heathen nations about them, but when they resorted to the houses of Baal and the groves of heathen worship, His wrath burned against them, and their enemies were permitted to humiliate and defeat them. There is no greater system of idolatrous worship than Roman Catholicism, with its deification of the Virgin Mary, the invoking and worship of dead saints, the purgatorial dogma, that of paying for masses to be said to deliver souls from the fires of torment, etc. There is no parallel for the latter in the rankest heathen worship, to say nothing of the claims of the clergy to be able to convert the wafer into the actual flesh and blood of Jesus Christ. This papal dogma is so revolting to one who has true spiritual enlightenment as to place one in a position where language is inadequate to express one's feelings. And then, last but not least, the claim of infallibility for the Pope and his prelates with power to absolve from sin is an abomination.

That young children must be locked up in Catholic prison houses and taught to believe these and other heresies too numerous to mention, is enough to arouse the spirit of every true believer. Of what have not many of these so-called Holy Fathers been guilty who claim the power to forgive sins?

How can the minds and consciences of our citizens be so stupefied as to allow the convents to remain closed to governmental inspection? What right have these prisons to exist in this country? If everything is all right and operated according to the laws of the land, why is it necessary to have locks, bars and sixteen-foot walls around the enclosures? Why is there such a protest on the part of the Roman Catholic clergy when this subject is mentioned, if there is not a cause?

We hail the K. K. K. in the great movement that is now on foot, as the army divinely appointed to set the forces in operation to rescue Americanism and save our Protestant institutions from the designs of the "Scarlet Mother."

Operations must begin in the outer, or political circles if our spiritual life is protected. The outer fortresses must be kept by one hundred per cent Americans to insure freedom in the exercise of our constitutional rights. Every officer of the law, and every preacher of the Gospel, must have protection in the discharge of his duty, otherwise the tendency would be to become intimidated and surrender to the foes of liberty.

Conditions are such that Protestants are in danger in their own halls and churches in exercising their constitutional rights. This has too often been demonstrated. A true Christian will refrain from making threats of violence or even having a thought of such a thing when his creed is opposed by others. But not so with Rome's loyal subjects. Retaliation and revenge are the weapons they use, and often physical force and violence. If, as a free-born people, we are in the enjoyment of our civil rights, we should know it. Are we under the masters of tyranny, or we free? This is the question that must be settled.

K u l l sStray Wolf Explains

Stray Wolf, an Oklahoma Indian who had become rich in oil, bought an expensive automobile and soon had an accident on the public highway. Limping and somewhat bruised, he came into the local salesroom, carrying a pocketful of money. He wanted another car and explained the loss of his original purchase in this way: "Drive out big red car. Buy moonshine. Take drink. Step on gas. Trees and fence go by. Pretty soon big bridge come down road. Turn out to let bridge go by. Bang! Car gone. Gimme 'nother."

The Three Asses

Three smart theological students were proceeding along the street one day ready for fun and adventure. They espied an old man with gray beard and white hair coming toward them and resolved to greet him with a mocking salutation.

"Hello, Father Abraham," said the first one.

"Hello, Father Isaac," said the second.

"Hello, Father Jacob," said the third.

The old man paused and looked the three young prigs over keenly with his glittery eyes and said: "You are mistaken, gentlemen: I am neither Abraham, Isaac, nor Jacob, but Saul the son of Kish out searching for my father's three asses, and behold I have found them."

CHAPTER XVII

The Iron Hand of the Pope in Mussolini's Government

Mussolini, the Premier of Italy, some months ago mobilized his Fascisti troops to crush the enemies of his iron rule, and with machine guns his soldiers guarded Rome. Demonstrations were carried on to intimidate all Italy.

The turbulence surrounding the seat of the "beast"—the Vatican—has great significance to those who understand prophecy, especially as given in the nineteenth chapter of Revelation, from the seventeenth verse to the end of the chapter, inclusive. The "beast" here has reference to political Romanism. The nineteenth verse says, "And I saw the beast, and the kings of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against him [Christ] that sat on the horse, and against his army." The "false prophet" is the head of the Mohammedan power. The fulfilment of these prophecies marks the winding up of the present age, preparatory to the coming of Christ who will sit on David's throne and rule the world in righteousness.

Divine retribution will be visited upon Islam and the papacy, who have martyred multiplied millions of the best men and women who ever lived or died. In the fourth verse of the twentieth chapter, we read, "And I saw thrones, and they sat upon them, and judgment was given unto them: and I saw the souls of them that were beheaded for the witness of Jesus, and for the word of God, and which had not worshiped the beast, neither his image, neither had received his mark upon their foreheads, or in their hands; and they lived and reigned with Christ a thousand years."

Before the final scene has been enacted, a general antipathy against the papal head will be developed in the minds and hearts of many who heretofore have been loyal to him. Cords that have bound loyal subjects to the old monarchical system will be strained to the utmost, and it will be difficult to restrain men's passions when once they learn how they have been robbed and deceived by the so-called Vicar of Christ. When confidence has thus been shaken, and faith in the infallibility of the triple-crowned head lost, there will be no extremity to which men will not go. In the early stages, conditions will begin to develop such as are now confronting the Premier of Italy. The resignation of the Liberals from his cabinet, and the suppression of all publications with sentiment contrary to the Mussolini government, are precursors of God's wrath upon the seat of the papacy. Since the death of Pope Pius X at the beginning of the World War, there has been great unrest at the Vatican. Coming events have cast their shadows, and the hosts for the defense are now being marshalled. The suppression of free speech and the throttling of the press, such as characterized Mussolini's activities, will only augment the difficulty and more speedily bring divine retribution upon the papal head.

The Italian people, who have suffered so much at the hands of autocratic rulers, are not so gullible as might be supposed; and when once they make a stand for human rights and a break for liberty, there will be no curbing of their activities, and only those who have divine illumination can see the end. Oh, that men would secure the favor of Him whose eyes "run to and fro throughout the whole earth, to show himself strong in the behalf of them whose heart is perfect toward him"! (2 Chron. 16:9).

The Klansmen are the prophets of a new and better age, and like Elijah, who slew Jezebel's false prophets and later girded up his loins and ran before Ahab's chariot, they have seen the cloud arising out of the sea, destined to fill the heavens and pour out its contents (1 Kings 18). These men with the banner of truth and the tenets of the Christian religion are now running before the Chariot of State, trying in every way possible to arouse the sleeping multitudes. Their program must be carried out if the country is saved from moral, social, and political ruin.

In 1889, when the dam of the reservoir broke at Johnstown, Pennsylvania, a man on a white charger dashed down the street ahead of the flood and gave warning to all within sight or hearing. Some heeded his message and fled to a place of safety, while others who were indifferent and skeptical lost their lives.

It is to be hoped that our readers will take warning and help to save the cause that the patriots have so valiantly espoused. In the meantime keep your eyes on Mussolini and the Vatican—the seat of the “beast”—where, in fulfilment of the Scriptures, trouble is sure to come.

Since the above was written, Mussolini has been suffering with an incurable disease. The report states that his brain as well as his body is affected, and the probabilities are that his career is well-nigh ended. It looks as if the hand of the Almighty has been laid upon him in judgment.

CHAPTER XVIII

Great Klan Victory in the Election of 1924

The returning of President Coolidge to the White House was a great triumph for the patriotic men and women of the United States. The New York Times conceded the fact that the Ku Klux Klan won where it was an issue in the election.

Outstanding victories for the Klan that cheered the editorial staff of The Good Citizen were reported from Indiana, Kansas, Mississippi, Colorado and Oklahoma. Candidates for congress and for the governorship in these states were successful, when endorsed by the Klan. From Colorado, our old battle ground, came the news that Judge Clarence J. Morley, who was endorsed by the Klan, had been elected governor and that the Klan-endorsed candidate had been elected to the United States Senate.

Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas was successful, being elected by the largest majority of his career. The notorious J. C. Walton of Oklahoma was defeated in the race for the Senate. Ed. Jackson, with Klan endorsement, was elected governor of Indiana.

Tammany Hall lost its grip on the New York Legislature, and is now being confined to its intrenchments in New York City. With the death of the late Charles Murphy, doom has been spelled for old Tammany, notorious for political corruption. Theodore Roosevelt Jr. made the blunder of denouncing the Klan and may have sealed his political doom. Likewise John W. Davis, the Democratic nominee for the Presidency, in his denunciation of the Klan ventured on dangerous ground, staked all, and lost.

Many aspirants for office were unable to read the signs of the times and gather from the pages of Holy Writ the fact that the great white army has been raised up by an overruling Providence for a specific purpose, and they have yet to learn the futility of opposing the instruments that God has chosen. Those who fell in line with un-American sentiment and made the Klan the brunt of their criticism suffered great losses that in all probability will never be regained.

We are living in a most portentous period of the world's history. Old political regimes are being broken down and new standards are being raised by American patriots. Those who oppose the Klan have selfish aims and fail to see the handwriting on the wall.

In Old World countries, where Rome has been in power, disaster and ruin have been the result. In recent years she has been tightening her grip on the United States, and in many places has held the reins of government, and it has taken just such an upheaval to awaken the people from their slumbers. The election of 1924 was the greatest blow that she has had in many years. The Catholic Church claims to be the balance-wheel in this Republic and her prelates have said,

"The day is not far distant when the Church will become the entire machinery of the government."

Such a prediction might have become true if the K. K. had not arisen. Thank heaven, the patriots are in the field, and so far they are the winners.

From various Catholic sources we quote:

"We should be governed and directed by the immutable principles of our religion as the only rule for our private, public and political conduct."

"All Catholics should exert their power to cause the constitutions of states to be molded after the principles of the Catholic Church."

"The Pope alone ought to wear the token of imperial dignity; all princes ought to kiss his feet; he has power to depose emperors and kings, and is to be judged by none."

"The Church of Rome must not only have the spiritual power, but also the supreme temporal power."

The foregoing show the sentiment of the papacy and the ambition of the Pope to rule the world. Every defeat of an anti-Klan candidate at the recent election was a just rebuke for his insincerity.

The Editor's Mixed Letters

An editor received two letters in the same mail. One of them came from the happy father of twins who asked the editor how they could best get them through the teething period. The other letter came from a farmer who was asking how to get rid of grasshoppers that were ruining his crop.

As usual the editor tried to give advice to both, but he in some way got the letters mixed. The proud father was not only surprised, but very indignant when he read, "Cover them with straw and set it on fire and the little pests will be settled forever." The other man was just as angry when he opened his letter and read, "Give them a little castor oil and rub their gums with a bone ring."

Protestantism in the Philippines

Twenty-five years ago, according to the Rev. A. E. Bigelow, there was not a single Protestant church, chapel building, preacher or teacher in the Philippine Islands, and if there were any Protestant believers they did not make it known, while today there are approximately 450 Protestant churches, with many good chapel buildings, 400 ordained preachers, 1,000 Sabbath-schools, about 200 Christian Endeavor societies and about 100,000 church members.—The Orange Standard.

Ku KluxReported Statements of Roman Prelates

"The Church of Rome is one monarchy over all the kingdoms of the earth, and is, among temporal kingdoms, as the mind or soul of the body of a man, or as God in the world. Therefore the Church of Rome must not only have the supreme power, but also the supreme temporal power."—Encyclical of Pope Leo XIII, 1879.

"Because of weak-kneed Catholics who are afraid to say their souls are their own, the American Federation of Catholic Societies has been organized to bring the powerful influence of the entire Catholic Church in America against the injustice of the public school system, to secure the revision of the histories and books of reference prejudicial to the Catholic Church, the removal of bigoted officials from holding office, and a move toward stricter divorce laws."—Bishop McPhaul, before Federation of Catholics, Milwaukee.

CHAPTER XIX

The Ku Klux Klan and Woman's Cause

Address delivered at 123 Sterling Place, Brooklyn, December 31, 1922.

The need of a patriotic organization, one hundred per cent American, with the tenets of the Christian faith, to safeguard the liberties of the nation, had long been felt in the United States. But the question was, From what source would it come? under what name should it appear? and when it came would it not be looked upon as a menace rather than a blessing?

Persecution, falsehood, and misrepresentation have marked every social, religious, and political reform in the history of the world. Christ himself was looked upon as an offender and law-breaker and was finally taken out and crucified as a common criminal. The scripture teaches that the servant is not above his Lord; and what may one not expect in this generation who espouses a righteous cause? When the occasion has demanded reform and the benefactors of society have arisen, there have always been those with whom the hammer and nails could be found, ready to spike them to the cross. The Knights of the Ku Klux Klan have arisen at this time to correct social and political evils, and they have been misrepresented and persecuted in a similar manner as have other great reformers. When the lion of depravity in human hearts is aroused, unprincipled men will go to any extreme to prevent the exposure of iniquity where politics and commercial interests are involved.

The Lutheran Reformation was characterized by a mighty upheaval of passion which started the enemies of progress on the path of revenge and extermination. However, they did not succeed in their attempts to defeat the plans of Omnipotence. The tide of public sentiment continued to rise until it swept over all civilization and an iniquitous system of graft that has staggered the world was exposed operating under the cloak of religion. Falsehoods were hatched and propagated by the enemies of the Cross, and the imps of perdition were stirred, until fearful acts of violence were perpetrated against those who had espoused the cause of the Reformation.

For six thousand years, or since the curse fell on the human race, woman, being of inferior physical powers, has been held in subordination, the victim of tyranny, as seen in heathen lands today, and save where the light of Calvary has shed its radiance, she continues to be enslaved.

The World War aroused the consciences of men and revived the fires of patriotism that had so long smouldered in their hearts. As a result of the great conflict, the Eighteenth and Nineteenth Amendments were placed upon the statute books, both of which tend to woman's liberation. The Prohibition amendment, a great blow to tyranny, indirectly broke chains that had enslaved women for ages. But unscrupulous politicians would modify the Volstead Enforcement Act and bring back the saloon with all of its attendant evils.

As the result of the activities on the part of the liquor interests, some men with notoriously "wet" sentiments have been elected to seats in Congress that women should occupy if their rights as newly enfranchised citizens are to be duly respected. These men would bring back the horrible nightmare of the liquor curse that has heretofore brought such desolation. They would fill the alms-houses, the lunatic asylums, and the penitentiaries, and enslave women and children.

The political octopus now preying upon the minds of the public must be combated by a patriotic organization with power to clip its tentacles and stop its damning influence. The Ku Klux Klan, in the providence of God, has declared for law-enforcement and the punishment of bootleggers and all other law-breakers who engage in the illicit traffic.

Women have always been the greater sufferers under the violation of law; and those who stand for law-enforcement are the espousers of woman's cause.

The Nineteenth Amendment brought to an end the long-fought battle for the enfranchisement of women; thanks be to the chivalry and votes of the men who helped to bring it about. The white cloud of Klansmen with the fiery cross is now conspicuous on the horizon, destined to bring about a mighty revolution in politics and religion. Wherever paganism is taught and practised as by the Church of Rome, its baneful influence is felt upon the country morally and politically, and if a determined resistance is not made the enemies of liberty would soon bring about a union of church and state, with all that would be involved.

It is yet to be proved that the Klansmen are not sincere and law-abiding citizens. Every rising tide of reform is attended by certain evils brought on by those who prove unfaithful to the cause. If there were not some who would abuse their privileges the Millennium would be here.

Wholesale condemnation of the Klan shows a great lack of wisdom and is the height of folly. Time will wear down the wall of opposition against any cause that is for the betterment of the human race. It will pay, therefore, to act with much deliberation before passing judgment on Klansmen.

No alien or citizen of foreign birth is eligible to membership in this great American organization. No Jew can become a member, not because the Klan is against the Jew, but because it professes the tenets of the Christian religion, which the Jew refuses to accept. A Roman Catholic is not admitted, because his Church has condemned separation of church and state and is against freedom of the press and free speech, which are the chief tenets of the order. The Roman Catholic Church holds allegiance to the triple-crowned head in the Vatican. It would be natural then, that Roman Catholics should be excluded. Some organizations have been formed to resist the activities of the Klan and if possible to crush it out, and all kinds of evils have been falsely attributed to its members by their foes, in order to create sentiment against them and the order.

The purpose of the organization, as before stated, is to suppress crime and to uphold American ideals. The society has been raised up by an all-wise Providence to combat un-American influences and evils. If it works secretly and invisibly it is because others are working in the same way. There is no basis for the charge that the Klan is un-American.

When Goliath for many days had openly defied Israel and help had to come from some quarter, God chose David to meet the giant and deliver His people. The young shepherd boy was not a welcome visitor in the camp of Saul, where men were cowering before the giant. Likewise this patriotic order has not been welcomed by the enemies of liberty. But as truly as David slew both the lion and the bear, and delivered the prey, and also took off the head of the Philistine, God will use this organization to set up the standard of Americanism that has been broken down.

As there was a cause for David's appearance on the battle-field, so there is a cause for the existence of the white-robed army, and its appearance should be hailed with joy by those who know conditions as they truly exist. The Knights of Columbus, Rome's military arm, are sworn to look after the interests of the papacy, and there must be an army of patriots to look after the interests of the nation. The patriots will see to it that there is less domination of city halls by Rome's henchmen, and less obstruction of the processes of law.

The Klan stands for the Protestant religion, for just laws, for equality, and for the purity and protection of women.

The Klan is a terror to the lawless elements. If it is the secret activities of the Invisible Empire that are objected to, then why not object to the secret operations of the Knights of Columbus, especially in politics? When the K. of C. come out into the open, then doubtless the Klan will do the same.

There is no place for the plotting ecclesiastic, the corrupt machine boss, the bootlegger, the wife-beater, and those who have sworn to make America subserve the purposes of a foreign potentate. They should be made to see that they must give up their present program and adopt a new one, or suffer the consequences. Let the Ku Klux Klan insist on American ideals and American fair play, and tolerate no favoritism for Rome; and the women of this nation will stand back of them and support their candidates at the polls.

The Klan stands for the supremacy of the white race, which is perfectly legitimate and in accordance with the teachings of Holy Writ, and anything that has been decreed by the all-wise God should not work a hardship on the colored race. Ham, one of the sons of Noah, brought the curse of subordination upon himself, and who is able to change the edicts of the Almighty? For the best interests of all concerned, the black race should occupy the place intended for it by the Creator. It is within the rights of civilization for the white race to hold the supremacy; and it is no injustice to the colored man. The white men of this country poured out their blood to liberate the colored people from the chains of slavery, and the sacrifice should be appreciated. The black man was given the ballot sixty years in advance of women. He had a voice in making the laws of the land, while white women remained in political bondage.

It took the Civil War to break the shackles from the black race, and the World War, half a century later, to break the political chains of women.

If woman's new place in religion and politics is not to make the world better, then the Bible scheme of redemption is a failure and the story of creation in the Book of Genesis a myth.

We are looking to the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan to champion the cause of woman and to protect her rights. The chaos in Europe today is the result of religious and political discrimination between the sexes; and if wrongs are not speedily righted, ruin is inevitable. May the United States profit by the object lesson the Old World has thrown upon the screen of time, and prevent a similar crisis.
